

WINE OF CARDUI

THE LINK THAT BINDS.

JACKSON, TENN., Nov. 28.
I was subject to miscarriage for three years, and suffered constantly with backache. I wrote to you for advice, and after using three bottles of Wine of Cardui, according to your directions, I am strong and well, and the mother of a fine girl baby.

Mrs. E. N. JOWERS.

WINE OF CARDUI

There is no use talking—a baby in the house is the link that binds husband and wife together. Nothing is sadder than fruitless wedlock. The prattling and cooing of the little ones offset a thousand times the occasional worries and trials of life. When a wife is barren, there is a derangement somewhere in the genital organs, caused by one or more of those common disorders known as "female troubles". Wine of Cardui is the remedy. It puts the organs of generation in a strong and healthy condition, fitting the wife for the sacred duty of reproducing her kind. During the period of gestation the entire system of the expectant mother is built up to withstand the ordeal of labor, and when the little one makes its advent it is lusty and strong, well-fitted to grow to maturity in perfect health. The mother, too, passes through the trial with little pain and no dread. Wine of Cardui is truly a wonderful medicine for women.

CARVING BY MACHINERY.

Elaborate Designs Chiseled in Stone With a Pneumatic Tool.

Mr. Charles Barnard in a comprehensive article in The Century on "The Industrial Revolution of the Power Tool" gives this picture of the work, not yet fully completed, on the new appellate courthouse, Madison square, New York city:

"The marble carver can for a short time give 50 blows a minute with his wooden mallet on his chisel. His average speed is probably less. With a pneumatic hammer he can strike 200, 2,000, 3,000 or 6,000 blows in one minute without the slightest exertion on his part. He can regulate the number of blows in each minute at will. His flying hammer fits any form of chisel used in his art. It will enable him to do any work he can do by hand and many things that would be impossible without his nervous little hammer. His hand, eye and mind are now free to give their whole attention and skill to guiding the chisel. All the labor (one-half of the total labor of striking the blow on the chisel is released. Just that amount of mental and physical energy is released to work in the real art, which is the guiding of the tool.

"An example of the economy thus afforded is found in the elaborate exterior decorations of the appellate court lately erected in Madison square, New York city. The building is of steel frame, with white marble facing. As required by law, a massive timber stage, or platform, was erected over the sidewalks, and on this the stone, bricks, steel beams and other material were deposited while being prepared for the steam derrick that lifted each piece into place. The blocks of marble arrived already squared, shaped and fitted, so that the work of the builder consisted merely in putting them in place in the wall. All the blocks that were to be decorated, capitals, lintels, panels, sides of windows—in fact, every block that was to carry any part of the ornamental work was left rough and was set in the wall just as it came from the marble yard.

"As the walls were erected a wooden staging was placed before them for the convenience of the marble workers. On the platform stood a small shed, sheltering a 12-horsepower gas engine operating an air compressor. From the compressor wrought iron pipes extended all over the staging. At intervals there were little hydrants to which rubber hoses could be easily attached. Here we have the distribution of power clearly illustrated. The gas engine using street gas has a distinct advantage over the steam engine, as its fuel is brought in a pipe instead of a cart, and it has no ashes to annoy the passer below. In fact, were it not for the barking of its exhaust pipe one would never imagine that a power plant was at work overhead.

"At one time 18 marble workers were employed on the building. Each one had beside him a plaster copy of the decoration he was to reproduce in the marble. His light steel hammer with its swiftly flying chisel cut the marble easily, surely, evenly. Rose and leaf, curving line, flowing tracery and flowering capital grew as if by magic under his hand. The beautiful forms of the pattern, or model, appeared with incredible speed. The chips flew in a fine shower of white dust under the lightninglike hammer. The long, flexible hose enabled the workman to stand in any position and hold the tool at any angle, and its tireless energy relieved him from everything except the skilled work of guiding the tools. He could stop in an instant and change the tool in less than a minute. The workman is no longer a skilled laborer; he is an artisan, with a new tool that relieves him from all labor."

A Qualified Decision.

"In the early days of Cour d'Alene," said an old miner, "I was working with my partners on a claim when we were suddenly startled by pistol shots and, looking up, discovered a man lying prostrate on an adjoining claim, while his assailant was trying to escape by logging it to the best of his ability. Without stopping to pick up the injured man we gave hot chase to the one trying to escape, whom we finally overhauled, captured and haled before a justice of the peace at Mission, Ida., the nearby town.

"There, as I remember it, it developed that it was an attempt at claim jumping and that the man who had done the shooting was the would-be jumper. The evidence was all against him, and word came that the man who had been shot lay all but within the portals of death, the physician giving it as his opinion that he could last only a few hours longer, and thereupon the famed justice of the peace rendered his decision.

"I find you guilty of murder in the first degree," said he severely as he turned toward the prisoner at the bar—"that is, provided the victim dies," and so that decision stands to this day."

A Newspaper Wonder.

When you open up your newspaper, it may cause you to feel some wonder if you know that in all probability yours are the first hands that have ever touched its inside pages. The reason for this is that the paper is made from wood pulp. The woodman cuts down a spruce tree. It is hauled to the mill. There machinery strips off the bark, reduces the wood to pulp and makes it into paper.

At every turn cranes, derricks, chains, cogs, rollers, steel teeth and other mechanical contrivances keep the material out of human hands. The immense rolls are wound by machines, loaded into car and wagon by machinery, put into pressroom and on presses by other machinery and finally printed and folded without having been directly touched by any human hand.

This is a mechanical marvel of today which is no doubt duplicated in other branches of industry. It is very striking in the newspaper industry, which stands in the very front rank of mechanical perfection.—St. Louis Post-Dispatch.

Ignorant, Indeed.

"Do you know anything about the recent financial crash?" asked the friend.

"No," answered the cold bloodedly truthful man. "I don't even know enough about it to moralize on it."—Washington Star.

ROOSEVELT THEIR CHOICE.

He Will Probably Be Renominated For Governor of New York.

NEW YORK, April 17.—Delegates to the state Republican convention thronged the Fifth Avenue hotel this morning. A careful consensus of opinion of the leaders was said to have shown that a large majority were in favor of the renomination of Governor Roosevelt. This statement by Congressman Littauer was endorsed by the speech prepared by Temporary Chairman Ellsworth and passed under the eyes of both Mr. Platt and Mr. Odell, evidently meeting their approval. It was pointed out by friends of the governor that this was a clear endorsement of the organization's attitude toward him.

Water.

The body needs internal as well as external baths to keep it healthy. To give the body an internal bath drink plenty of water. Two quarts should be taken each day, beginning with a glass just before retiring. If you are inclined to stoutness, do not drink during meals or within a half hour before or after them. If your complexion is bad, nothing is more conducive to a cure than drinking water either hot or cold, but preferably the latter.—New York Press.
